1. The time of this Studio, must be very animated, the octaves being played very staccato and steadily, accentuating well all the octaves marked with the sign \gt) not bending, nor taking off too far the third finger at each note, but giving both notes well together, with a brisk and slight motion of the hand, paying attention to keep it close to the strings—the minims of the bass a little accentuated, while the under crotchets notes are to be played light and short. B) give force to the second right finger and keys the hand steady.

First system of musical notation, featuring a treble and bass clef. The music includes various notes, rests, and dynamic markings such as p and f. There are also some performance instructions like x and b above notes.

Second system of musical notation. It includes tempo markings: rallent. and (C) A Tempo. Dynamic markings include espress., fz, Fix E. A. b., and pp leggieriss e scherzoso. There are also markings for Fix D. and pp.

Third system of musical notation. It features dynamic markings such as mf e brillante. and includes some performance instructions like x and 3 above notes.

Fourth system of musical notation. It includes dynamic markings such as cresc., f, and ff. There are also markings for com and D.

Fifth system of musical notation. It includes dynamic markings such as fuoco e marcato., deciso., and ff. There are also markings for fz and fz.

1.) In this Studio, which will be found most excellent to equalise the fingers of the right hand, and to give proper strength to the 2^d and 3^d; the right wrist must remain steady and motionless, while the fingers solely are to act freely, and with as much equality as possible—I recommend the performer all through the Studio to pay particular attention to the 2^d and 3^d right fingers, which I dare say, will be found weak, stiff, and unable at first to keep pace with the thumb and first finger; these 2^d and 3^d fingers must strike the notes by the sole bending of the joints, and not by a jerk of the wrist—the semibreves and minims of the left hand to be very lit.

The whole to be performed Gracefully and playfully, the Bass very staccato, without any sort of arpeggios, the hand being rather turned up. (B) the little F's very light and quick, giving force to the following large E. (C) all the first lower A's of the bass, well marked; the other notes piano and equal, do not try to place at once all the three fingers and the thumb of the Left hand on the string, but play the first A of the bar independently and detached, and afterwards place the 2^d 1st finger and the thumb. (D) the small notes all ways light and very quick, taking care to give accent to the following large notes with the sign > , the same all through the Studio.

STUDIO 7.

The score consists of five systems of piano and harp parts. The piano part is written in treble clef with a key signature of three flats (B-flat, E-flat, A-flat) and a common time signature. The harp part is written in bass clef with the same key signature and time signature. The score includes various technical markings such as p, marcato, sempre marcato, ppp delicato, and gva. Fingerings and articulations are indicated throughout, including slurs, accents, and specific fingerings like '2 1 x 3' and '3 2 1 x 3'. The harp part features double turned-up notes and single lower notes.

(A) The double turned up notes of the left hand, soft and light, while the single lower notes turned down are to be given (all through the studio) clearly and well accentuated, — this, will require much practice and will be of great service to the Harpist, and the Author will advise him to go through this Studio first with the left hand alone, which will not prove irksome, as the Bass combine by it self the melody and Harmony. (B) all the notes of the right hand Scales, very equal; take care in changing of position, (it is to say after each four contigion notes) not to turn or move the wrist, and place in proper time (and with ease) the third finger in ascending scales; and the thumb in descending scales. (C) keep the hand and wrist very quiet and steady, while the thumb or the third

The musical score is written for piano and consists of six systems, each with a treble and bass staff. The key signature is three flats (B-flat, E-flat, A-flat). The time signature is 2/2. The first system is marked con fuoco. and ff. The second system is marked p. The third system is marked piu p. The fourth system is marked cresc. and gva.... The fifth system is marked p and p. The score includes various musical notations such as slurs, accents, and dynamic markings. The first system has a gva marking above the treble staff. The second system has a p marking above the treble staff. The third system has a piu p marking above the bass staff. The fourth system has a cresc. marking above the bass staff and a gva... marking above the treble staff. The fifth system has a p marking above the treble staff and a p marking above the bass staff. The score includes complex rhythmic patterns and fingerings.

(1) The upper turned notes with the right thumb, to be well accentuated, and played with taste and feeling, while the Arpeggios under are to be given with freedom, equality and agility.
