About the artist

When I was eleven, I asked to learn to play either the violin or percussion instruments. The only instrument which I was offered by my school's band director was a clarinet. This didn't work out so well for a dyspraxic girl with chronic sinusitis. I quickly abandoned my musical training and forgot all about it until I purchased a violin as a gift to myself once I moved away from home at eighteen.

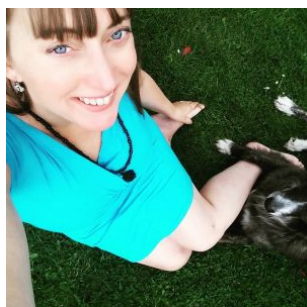

Unfortunately, I couldn't find anybody willing to teach violin to a complete beginner adult so I tried, unsuccessfully for years to learn it on my own.

Finally, I accepted that my violin was gathering more dust than playtime so I sold it to a friend who put me in touch with a place where I could rent my dream instrument, a hammered dulcimer!

I've been happily tapping away at my dulcimer for years now. I'm still a total amateur but I'm getting there. In the meantime, my daughter is expressing an interest in musical inst... (more online)
